After five years of construction with costs adding to $3,500,000, the super flying dreadnaught B-19 takes to the air at Santa Monica, Cal., in its first test flight, the first of several by the Douglas aircraft company before she is turned over to the U. S. army.

Freight Crashes at Niles;
Limited Derailed At
Massillon

(By Associated Press)
Two Pennsylvania railroad trains were wrecked in Ohio today.

Two engineers died as their locomotive jumped the track near Niles, landing on its side, half-buried in the right-of-way, with 14 loaded freight cars piled up behind it.

Four coaches of the Manhattan Limited, running from New York to Chicago, were derailed within Massillon's city limits, but no one was seriously injured.

Engineer G. E. Brown and Fireman K. E. Forester, both of Wheatland, Pa., were killed in the Niles wreck, which tore up nearly 1,000 feet of track on the Alliance division of the Pennsylvania.

Carried Valuable Shipment
The train was bound from Canton, O., to Wheatland, and carried a valuable shipment of pig tin as well as other goods. Railroad officials declined to comment on reports that yellow-hued tubes, which burst from boxes in one car, were for shell-making, and said they had no idea what caused the wreck.

This derailment occurred between 3 and 3:30 a. m. on a curve about 2 1/2 miles south of Niles. The head brakeman, riding on the tank car of the locomotive, suffered head and leg injuries. Engineer Brown's body was pried out of the wreckage within a half hour, but Fireman Forester's body remained pinned under the stoker several hours after the derailment.

START MONDAY ON STREET REPAIRS

C. F. Zimmerman, chairman of city council's streets, alleys and sidewalks committee, said today that Service Director Charles T. Kennedy had promised him that work would commence Monday on the spot-patching of N. Ellsworth ave., which was severely damaged by last winter's freezing and thawing weather.

Improvement of the street as a 1942 state highway department project is sought by the city. Route 45 traffic traverses the thoroughfare.

Biggest Bomber
Conditioned For
Series of Hops

BY DEVON FRANCIS
MARCH FIELD, Calif., June 28—Its maiden flight completed, the Douglas B-19, described by the army air corps as the world's biggest bomber, was groomed today for a long series of test hops which probably will determine whether this country will build a fleet of super-dreadnaughts of the air.

Such a fleet, based on the experimental work which went into the $3,500,000 monster, with a fully loaded weight of 82 tons, is more than a mere possibility.

Big Planes Seen Inevitable
Responsible military opinion has held ever since the start of the European war that with air power's coming of age, larger, faster and more heavily armed battleplanes inevitably will follow.

For comparison with the big bomber which yesterday was flown from the factory at Santa Monica to March Field, a distance of 75 miles, the Standard American "heavy" bomber in production today weighs about 22 tons.

A navy flying boat, also experimental in nature and expected to have approximately the same weight as the B-19, is under construction at an eastern seaboard factory, and it was disclosed for the first time yesterday that a contract for a bomber of about 50 tons has been signed by the air corps with another aircraft factory.

Where the second monster bomber for the army will be built was not stated.

Everyone Uneasy
It was an uneasy, keyed-up group of factory and air corps officials which watched the propellers of the B-19's four 2,000-horsepower Wright engines suddenly begin spinning at takeoff power at the far end of the Coffer field runway.

Engineers had figured what the plane, with its 212-foot wingspread, would do when the power was poured to it, but the proof of the pudding was the eating.

Maj. Stanley M. Umstead of Wright field Dayton, O., the army's chief test pilot, admitted after the flight, "maybe I was a little nervous." He over-controlled on both take off and landing, because, as he put it, the ship responded so sensitively.

SOVIET 'BLITZ'
ROUTES PANZERS

Nazis, On Other Hand,
Claim Glowing Success
On Russian Front

(By Associated Press)
MOSCOW, June 28—The Red army's tanks, planes and artillery joined in a mighty blitzkrieg counter-attack, and have routed the most threatening of all the German panzer columns that have shoved into the buffer zone of occupied territory along the old Russian frontier, it was announced officially today.

Pointed Toward Minsk

The German column was pointed toward Minsk, on the road to Moscow, 400 miles away, when the Russians, by their own account, turned the full fury of their lightning war on it.

Minsk, capital of White Russia, lies about 20 miles inside the old frontier, about 150 miles east of the nearest German border.

The Russian communique, picturing the greatest array of successes thus far in the seven-day old struggle, said that the fighting was fiercest where that it seems only fair that the city workers should receive consideration.

Copy of a proposed ordinance providing for paid vacations in the service and waterworks departments was turned over to council.

Employees with one year's service and not more than three would receive one week's vacation, under the terms of the proposal. Employees with three years' service would be eligible for two weeks' vacation.

Claim More Successes
BERLIN, June 28—Nazi panzer columns driving a salient deep into the Russian defense line have annihilated an entire Red army division, supported by a regiment of tanks, which had lost contact with the main Soviet force, DNB, official German news agency, reported.

It was the second time in the first week of fighting on the eastern front that DNB had described the destruction of a whole Russian division, but neither time did it specify where the action occurred.

(A division usually is composed of 15,000 men but some Russian divisions are said to number 20,000 or more. The number of tanks in a Russian regiment is not known, but probably there are between 75 and 150.)

The German high command's promised announcement of great successes, complete with details, still was not forthcoming, but reports with the fighting forces sent home plenty of descriptive material.

Mountain troops from the fuhrer's native Austria were said to have destroyed 100 Russian mechanized units at one point yesterday while panzer columns racing over hot, dust-choked roads battled another Soviet tank regiment to a standstill. The crew of one anti-tank gun was said to have smashed 15 Russian tanks by itself.

Solons to Study Requests
At Next Meeting Tuesday Night

Members of city council, already studying pay increase requests of the police and fire departments, today considered an appeal from service and water department employees for hourly wage increases.

Acting as the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, Salem local No. 318, the workers filed with petition with A. P. Morris, chairman of council's finance committee. Paid vacations also are sought by the service and water department employees.

Council met last night in a committee session to discuss the request but took no action. Council's regular meeting is Tuesday night.

The city has been asked to boost the pay of the common laborers in the service department from 50 to 70 cents an hour; machine operators from 57 to 85 cents an hour; maintenance men from 55 to 85 cents an hour, and skilled labor from 60 cents an hour to 85.

It is also requested that in the waterworks department the pay rate of the stationary engineers be advanced from 75 cents to $1 an hour; day fireman, from 60 to 85 cents an hour; watchmen (there are two) from 50 to 70 cents an hour, and the city electrician from $135 a month to $175.

Russell Thomas is president and Norman Kennedy, secretary, of the municipal employees' local. They point out that in view of increases in living costs and wage boosts in private industry practically everywhere, that it seems only fair that the city workers should receive consideration.

Copy of a proposed ordinance providing for paid vacations in the service and waterworks departments was turned over to council.

Employees with one year's service and not more than three would receive one week's vacation, under the terms of the proposal. Employees with three years' service would be eligible for two weeks' vacation.

The German radio said Gamelin escaped Friday.

Another Shipment of Varied
Articles Dispatched
To England

Salem Red Cross has just sent another shipment of clothing to England, made by Salem chapter and its branches—Washingtonville, Winona, and Damascus. The shipment included 50 babies' layettes with 31 articles of clothing each, four children's comforts made from the cuttings, 24 dresses for two-year old babies, two surgeon's gowns and a new suit of man's clothes.

A new quota of sewing is slowly being received and work started. There will be 6,451 yards of materials to be made up into 1,857 garments. The chapter is asked to complete this quota by the last of January, 1942. Salem will be assisted by Winona, Washingtonville and Damascus.

The chapter is asking every one that has some time to give and can help with this sewing to either ask for sewing at their homes or report to the rooms on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

The cutting committee began cutting children's dresses this week and additional help is also sought in this much needed work.

There is a large quota of knitting to be completed. The yarn for these knitted garments has started to come in. There are 500 children's sweaters to be made, 200 women's sweaters and 100 men's sweaters; also socks, mufflers, and peasant shawls. The chapter asks every knitter available in Salem to lend their services.

The program is built around the general theme of the school, "The Message of My Bible." It also will be expressed in the "Pageant of Peace," a feature of the evening. Dip'omas will be presented the students.

The Dramatics class of the Bible school, instructed by Lucia Sharp and assisted by Vivian Poltz and Maybelle Huston, is presenting the pageant. This class has had a regular attendance of 30 members. All members of the class take part in the pageant.

The pageant is a conflict between the "God of War" and the "God of Peace" who show their respective powers to the various nations of the world.

WEATHERMAN SEES
RAIN ALONG LAKE

(By Associated Press)
Promises of rain along the lake border raised hopes of relief today from a wave of stifling heat that has baked Ohio two days and indirectly brought death to five persons.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were forecast for the northern fringe of the state, but little respite was seen for the southern areas.

New records for June 27 heat were set in Cleveland and Youngstown. The mercury rose to 96 in the steel center, to 94 in the lake city, Columbus, Cincinnati and Toledo likewise had readings in the 90's, but below previous records. It was 97 at Ottawa, 99 at Fremont.

Daniel Battista, 73, Youngstown, succumbed to a heart ailment aggravated by heat, and James C. Bradley, Jr., 23, drowned in Diehl lake, north of Salem, after a companion with whom he had been swimming failed in an attempt to save him.

Three other drownings were reported. They were:
Bellefontaine—Louis Wickline, 28-year-old evangelist from Mt. Sterling, in a farm pond where he was swimming.

West Union—Rushford Morrison, 17, while swimming with friends in Brush Creek.

Dayton—Robert Williams, 11, while swimming in the Miami river.

CONGRESS SPEEDS
APPROPRIATIONS

Drives Hard to Clear Away
Jam Before Fiscal Year Ends

WASHINGTON, June 28—Driving hard to clear a legislative jam before the fiscal year ends, both houses of congress held unusual Saturday sessions today and leaders reported that all key measures would be dispatched to President Roosevelt before the new fiscal period begins at midnight Monday.

The senate was expected to give a substantial majority to a bill continuing for two years from July 1 the President's emergency powers to devalue the dollar another 9 cents and to operate the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund. Before a final vote could be taken, the chamber had to dispose of an amendment by Senator Adams (D-Col.), proposing elimination of the devaluation power.

Approves Army Measure

The scantily-attended session yesterday gave prompt approval to the biggest single appropriation measure in history—the $10,384,821,624 army supply bill. And, before the day was over, a joint senate-house conference committee met and agreed on the senate total, which was $558,312,132 above that approved by the house and which included $600,000,000 for the construction of 15 new munitions plants.

The senate also gave quick approval to the $54,795,200 annual appropriation bill for the District of Columbia, and sent to the White House a measure extending the life of the Federal Housing Administration for two years and increasing from $4,000,000,000 to $5,000,000,000 the amount of mortgage insurance it may have outstanding. Because of house resistance, a previously-approved senate rider extending mortgage insurance to farmers was dropped in the last-minute rush.

For Defense Workers

Also approved in the swiftly-paced day was a measure to provide $150,000,000 for recreational and sanitary facilities for workers in defense areas.

The measure continuing Mr. Roosevelt's momentary powers drew considerable opposition speechmaking yesterday, but it generally was conceded that the measure would be approved intact.

Grappling Hooks Bring Up
Body An Hour and a Half Later

In a second water tragedy in the district within a week, James Bradley, Jr., 23, of Alliance, an Ohio Bell Telephone Co. employe in Youngstown, was drowned at 2:30 p. m. Friday while swimming at Diehl lake, north of Salem.

His body was recovered at 4:05 p. m. by one of a group of volunteers who manned rowboats and used grappling hooks furnished by the Salem fire department. Among them were Adam Smith, plant chief here for the Ohio Bell, and State Patrolmen L. L. Russell and Cornelius Csepke.

Artificial respiration methods were used on Bradley after he was brought to shore, but to no avail. The body had been in the water an hour and a half.

Bradley went under the water suddenly as he and a companion, Douglas Meacham, 18, of 173 Rosemont drive, Youngstown, started to swim across the lake. They were half way across when Bradley started to go down. Meacham tried to grab him and was almost pulled under himself. Meacham managed to swim back to shore and summon aid.

There were no phones available at the lake and a call to the Canfield fire department had to be made from a service station at Ellsworth. The state patrolmen were in Canfield at the time and rushed to the scene. While other swimmers tried unsuccessfully to dive for the body, which lay in 20 feet of water, Patrolman Russell drove here for the fire department's grappling hooks. Within 15 minutes after he returned the body was recovered.

The body was removed to the Williams funeral home at Canfield, to be taken later to his home in Alliance.

Bradley, a telephone installer, had worked for the Ohio Bell about a year. He had known his swimming companion only two weeks.

Alliance High School Graduate
Mr. Bradley was a seventh degree member of Mile Branch grange, belonged to the Jolly Farmers 4-H club of Columbiana county and attended the Bethel church Sunday school. He was graduated from Alliance High school in 1936.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Bradley, of home; three sisters, Mrs. Harold Tucker of Berlin Center, Mrs. Edward Cobbs of Alliance, Miss Janis Bradley, at home, and the grandmother, Mrs. S. H. Bradley, of Covington, Kentucky.

The funeral service will be held at 3 p. m. Monday at the Cassidy & Turkle parlors in Alliance, in charge of Rev. G. C. Wayman, pastor of the Bethel Reformed church. Burial will be in the Fairmount Memorial park.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday evening.

FARMER IS BURNED
IN GASOLINE FIRE

LISBON, June 28.—Galen Bowman, Center township trustee and farmer, escaped possible serious injury Friday afternoon when spilled gasoline caught fire as he and several other men were unloading a farm tractor from a truck.

Bowman was burned about the face and hands when some of the gasoline sprayed on him. He also suffered a leg injury when the tractor passed over it.

Just a Nightmare

CLEVELAND, June 28.—Geraldine Elaine Mitchell, 16, of Brecksville, told police her story that two robbers beat her "was just a dream." She had said two men tortured her in a Brecksville home where she was employed as a maid. David Cowles, superintendent of Cleveland's scientific crime bureau, said the girl told him: "I don't know what happened to me. I had a dream of such a thing happening, I guess."

CONFUSION BREEDING CONFUSION

It is more than slightly painful to watch the "red baiters" trying to swallow Russia as an ally of convenience in the anti-Nazi front. They are thinking up almost as many ways to try to make the dose palatable as the red raiders who have been undermining America but now are supposed to give it a helping hand.

This ludicrous situation could have been averted if there had been less confusion and more honesty about America's real reason for standing behind Great Britain. Instead of gushing emotionally about the dear, dear British and there'll always be an England, Americans should have been coached in reality from the outset.

The reality is that the United States is interested in saving its own bacon from the fire. It cannot afford to let Germany maneuver itself into a position to dominate the world. It could not afford to let Great Britain do the same thing, if the British had the initiative in this war. For the sake of its own security, the United States must forestall Armageddon.

The way to forestall Armageddon obviously is to keep militarism from resolving itself into one climactic conflict. Until the United States becomes strong enough to protect itself, its security against militant Germany lies in the resistance of Germany's opponents, including Russia. This is a battle for national self-preservation, not a game of international post-office.

If the idea that British aid was anything but garden variety enlightened selfishness had been squelched from scratch—if emotionalism had been left out of it—"rustling for Russia" wouldn't be a bit harder to accept as national policy than "bundling for Britain." True, the Russians have not been leaning over backward to foster goodwill in the United States, but as far as that concerned the British never did, either.

LIFE-GOES-ON ITEM

Ordinarily at this stage of the game if congress weren't already on summer vacation the leaders would be plotting and planning to get it there as quickly as possible. This year, aside from occasional whispers, no one seems to be thinking about adjournment, or even a recess.

Congress is in eclipse, something that always happens when the executive department is doing big things. There is some comfort in knowing, however, that the legislative mill seems to be grinding about as usual.

On Tuesday, June 24, for instance, the senate was not in session. The house, with an occasional spate of cutting comments about Communists, Lindberghians, isolationists, interventionists, and foreign policy in general, was droning through a somewhat technical debate on the farm tenant mortgage insurance problem. At one point in the proceedings, it takes two pages of the Congressional Record to cover a quibble over whether the debate should be for one hour or two hours. There were the usual resolutions, memorials, petitions and requests for space in the record to extend remarks. Under the new regulation that the cost of such space shall be made known, members explain that their latest speech or whatever it is will cost $135 to put into print but is well worth it, etc.

It's reassuring to know that things are going about as usual in congress, at least as far as external appearances are concerned.

NEWS FROM THE FRONT

War news coverage, always difficult and getting worse, becomes all but impossible when two dictatorships are the combatants. Germany and Russia, both with water-tight censorships, will make certain there is no such thing as objective reporting of their battle. If Russia proves as ineffectual as expected, news from the front will follow the usual communistic line.

A claims a general advance, whereupon B explains it has been beating a strategic retreat and exacting heavy toll of enemy forces. A says it has captured a key city despite strong resistance and the claim is discounted by B's report that it has destroyed 150 tanks and 43 planes. A says the enemy is in disorderly retreat, and B says it is falling back on previously fortified positions according to plan. It is now B's turn to explain what frightful retribution is in store for the enemy, but nothing further is heard of that. In the meanwhile A bags 57 enemy planes, while losing eight, but on the same day B bags 48 enemy planes while losing five. Just as it begins to look as though the thing might be a draw, someone acting for B accepts "peace" terms. A few days later this is followed by the "news" that A sustained no casualties aside from a few scratches, due to the fact that B offered no resistance whatever.

THE DIFFERENCE

German claims of success against Russia are impressive, but also noteworthy are Russian claims of successful air operations. It has been German dominance in the air that has given it the advantage in mechanized warfare. In Russia, for the first time, its air arm is meeting real resistance. Russia has been air-minded at least as long as Germany.

Meanwhile, British bombers are swarming over the invasion area night after night, presumably doing as much damage as German bombers were able to do when they paid repeated visits to the United Kingdom last fall and winter. It is apparent that the bulk of German air power is being used in the Russian campaign, thus giving Great Britain its first aerial advantage since the war began.

The difference between Germany and its enemies has been chiefly in planes. The difference is being diminished every time a German plane is brought down by a Russian, every time an American plane is added to British air power.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, June 29

SUNDAY'S horoscope may indicate a rather conflicting state of affairs, with a disintegrating and devastating set of circumstances to be met by forces, ingenuity and resolution in order to save the day. In this direction keep a strenuous front against erratic, surprising and undermining activities. Those in power and place should recognize initiative and determination and will be disposed to lend powerful support. Don't be captured by empty promises.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year in which their own ingenuity and skill may be brought to bear on difficult and disintegrating situations. Change of plans, perhaps environs, may contribute to disposing of such devastating influence and also attract the help and wise counsel of elders, superiors and those in power.

A child born on this day should have much really outstanding and unique ability, skill and initiative, which it will successfully apply to overcome difficult and undermining influences.

For Monday, June 30

Monday's astrological forecast may be favorable for much activity and liveliness of the affairs, which may be best promoted by change, travel, communications, or any form of writings, or correspondence of a social, friendly and convincing nature rather than strictly business formality. The elements of the social, romantic, and artistic figure in promoting the position and building up desired favor. Happy change is in order.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of great success, with a fulfillment of cherished aims and ambitions in all departments of living. The artistic, romantic, and all phases of creative art and ability are under stimuli. It is a time for the young and ambitious to work for cherished goals.

A child born on this day should have unusual ability in arts, drama, music and poetry, and should be eminently fitted for a distinguished professional career.

Clendening Not Happy About Modern Cars

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The great Russian physiologist Pavlov spent most of his life investigating the phenomena that he called conditioned reflexes. He showed, for instance, that if an animal is taught over and over again that the ringing of a bell means that a dish of meat is just inside a certain door, he will go to find the meat as soon as he hears the bell, whether the meat is there or not. The conditioned reflex stays with him for the rest of his life.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

In these days of rapid changing in automobile design I wish that Pavlov had found out how to uncondition our reflexes.

I have just been learning to drive a new car, one of those that has no gear shift and, since I have spent most of my automobile-driving life changing gears, I find my left foot keeps reaching for the clutch pedal.

Requires Intense Thought

I am all right as long as I think about it intensively, but I must have been driving the old car with about a tenth of my mind. I will undoubtedly get conditioned to the new arrangement in time, but meanwhile I am keeping to the back streets.

I have, though, a very serious complaint about automobile manufacture. I don't know where they get their model for automobile drivers, but the model must have been a real wasp-waisted and the steering wheel of the modern automobile digs into my person so that I can not possibly steer it until the seat is set back a few inches.

The steering wheel is really a menace as pointed out by Dr. Claude S. Beck of Cleveland, who has collected a number of cases of damage to the heart from the steering wheel jamming into the chest at the time of an accident.

Rest After Accidents

Weakness coming on after an accident is the commonest symptom of damage to the heart. There is also shock—lowered blood pressure with cold, clammy skin, restlessness and air hunger.

Drivers should be warned not to start on their way again too soon after an accident no matter how trivial, especially if the wheel has jammed into them at the time of the accident. More important—set it that the steering wheel is far enough away from the body.

Another piece of useful hygiene while touring is not to have the stomach or any organ full. The most serious common occurrence in an automobile accident is rupture of the bladder or stomach. If they are empty there is no danger of this.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

L. L. St. Joseph, Mo.: "What about boils, their cause, and do people with diabetes have boils? Also about headache. I wake up with a headache and sick at my stomach about every ten days; these spells last all day."

Answer: Boils are caused by the entrance of germs into the lower layers of the skin. They tend to occur in places where rubbing or abrasion of the skin occurs—as the back of the neck, from rubbing of the collar. Diabetics are very subject to boils. The headaches sound like migraine.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Little Temptations

John Newton says that Satan seldom comes to Christians with great temptations, or with a temptation to commit a great sin. You bring a green log and a candle together, and they are very safe neighbors; but bring a few shavings, and set them about, and then bring a few small sticks and let them take fire, and cast the log in the midst of them, and you will soon get rid of your log. And so it is with little sins. You will be startled with the idea of committing a great sin, and so the devil brings you a little temptation, and leaves you to indulge yourself. "There is no great harm in this," "no great peril in that," and so by these little chips we are first easily lighted up, and at last the green log is burned.

English Lutheran Service Arranged

At the 11 a. m. Sunday worship service, Rev. George D. Keister, pastor of the Holy Trinity English Lutheran church, will preach on the subject, "Shackles on God."

The Sunday school will meet at 9:45 a. m. to discuss I Corinthians 3:1-15.

The Christian church is almost 2,000 years old. Some of the problems that must be faced in the early days are still unsolved. Human nature does not greatly change through the centuries. The spirit of worldliness still seeks to enter the program of the church. Strife and divisions stir up antagonisms. The power of the early church rested not in the people of that day, but in the close touch of those people with God. When the people unitedly labored for the finishing of the task before them, then they succeeded.

The omnipotence of God is a teaching that we must accept if we believe in God. Yet there are numerous ways that God is hindered and prevented in accomplishing His will by the attitude of people. Jesus performed many wonderful miracles, yet in His own town of Nazareth, He was handicapped because of the unbelief of the people. God has a definite and blessed purpose for the human race, but this plan is hindered and prevented by the rebellion of man. An individual may be used to uplift and to alleviate the ills of the human race, but he may be willful and plunge the world into bloodshed and trouble. God is omnipotent, but willful man may hinder His way.

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "God is the divine principle of all that represents Him and of all that really exists. Christian Science, as demonstrated by Jesus, alone reveals the natural, divine principle of science."

DEFEND YOUR HOME

IF you are building a new home or remodeling an old one watch for the weak points. During the construction of your home you buy the finest materials available to make it comfortable, permanent and beautiful. You lay oak floors for ever lasting beauty. You use inlaid linoleum for the same reason but, when it comes to the building hardware, such as your door latches, sash locks and lifts etc., you pick hardware that in several years will become unsightly. This is due to it being steel base with a plating on it. It looks nice and shiny at first but look at your neighbors hardware that has been on several years. Nine tenths of the homes have cheap hardware which now looks terrible. Your door knobs, sash locks and lifts are used more than any other articles in your house and therefore must be good.

We are offering you a complete line of beautiful matched Schlage hardware for your home. This hardware is bronze for enduring beauty and service. We do not carry a line of steel plated hardware because we feel that by selling good hardware we are doing our customers a favor, not only now, but in years to come. This hardware while being the best is not high in price and in most cases the hardware for an entire house will not be more than $10 or $15 higher than cheap merchandise. Please consider this when you are building. Before you buy look at our new modern matched hardware and you will see the difference. Also for your convenience we key all your outside and garage doors alike so one key will open any door at no extra cost to you.

Recital By Dance School Attracts Large Audience

Described by the large audience which attended the performance as the most outstanding and colorful recital in the history of the school, the program presented last night at the High school auditorium by students of the Bettie Lee school of dancing was marked by the individually good work of both advanced and new students.

Stage settings and costumes, featuring a Latin-American theme in many cases, were gay and attractive, forming a picturesque background for the songs and dances of the youngsters.

A highlight of the recital was a Latin-American group of songs and dances, with Mrs. Bettie Lee Schilling, the teacher of the school, featured in a modern interpretation of the Latin American style of "Havana for a Night". In FROCK HAS "SLEEVELESS" LOOK Pattern 4795.

"Lady" be feminine!" says Summer Fashion. And Anne Adams smartly responds with Pattern 4795! Those long front and back panels will do lovely things for your figure. Another new and popular feature! Either shirring or darts hold the shoulder lines nicely in place. Make one sheer afternoon style with lace edging, and then stitch up another look in sport version, perhaps adding a dashing touch with revers, a belt and a wide hem-band in spirited contrast!

Pattern 4795 is available in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 16 takes 3 1/2 yards 39-inch fabric and 2 1/4 yards lace edging.

"THE GORGON'S MASK"

by Van Wyck Mason

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

Moody North strode back for a final inspection of the oily-smelling shack, and made a mental tally of the rim marks that certain great oil drums had left on the floor.

"Plenty of crude oil—well, let's be going, Bruce." He caught up one of the tarpon rods with which they had camouflaged the investigation.

Three minutes later the Walua, that speedboat which Kilgour had chartered, was drawing a broad white streak across the bay heading for Kalohe Channel at forty knots.

From the speedboat's forward cockpit North cast a moody look back at the sun-gilded wharf.

"Guess the bird's flown for good," he commented. "It puzzles me to know why Karen's crowd started to pull out so early; at nine o'clock Teodora's body had just been found."

"Yes, I thought of that, too. Of course a wireless on Oahu would have done the trick. But I wouldn't worry too much about that just now."

"I'm not. I'm wondering just where Captain Karen moved all that fuel."

Kilgour blinked in the glare from the water. "So am I. Lord, if we only had time we could trace these oil purchases—"

He glanced quickly up into the aching blueness of the sky, for—low over the water and not a mile distant—a black-painted biplane was roaring aloft.

"I guess Karen pulled out as soon as word got 'round that sister Teodora had been keeping bad company," commented North.

"Bad company?"

"Kanamura, of course." And North elapsed into silence while Kilgour gloomily surveyed the Walua's American engineer and the hungry-looking half-caste boy who helped with the running of the speedboat.

How paradoxical it was, North mused, that on this lovely and peaceful sea the foulest of human emotions were abroad.

Somewhere out to the westward a Japanese cruiser squadron was steaming steadily towards Honolulu and terrible fate....

Suddenly the U. S. agent noticed a black object floating less than a quarter of a mile to the left. Cupping his hands, he faced the stern and ordered the helm put over.

"Hello!" queried Kilgour. "What's up?"

Very soon it appeared that what North had seen was a human body in dark clothes floating far out from the nearest island.

Utterly vanished was the intelligence captain's previous lethargy as he ordered the Walua's speed checked; soon he deftly caught the unknown's collar with a boat hook and ordered the Walua into reverse.

The body proved to be quite unrecognizable. On closer inspection it appeared to be that of a Japanese, his head crushed by some terrific force, in such manner that the skin was not broken.

When the body had been hauled aboard, Kilgour stood looking on as North made the usual search.

"No papers at all," the searcher reported. "Queer, he's still warm, he's been dead over fifteen minutes."

"Remember that plane?" Kilgour queried. "He might have fallen out of it. That would account for his battered condition."

North was intent on examination of an expensive gold wrist watch which had been worn by the dead Japanese.

"Somehow, I don't think that's quite the right explanation," North returned. "See? This watch has stopped at 2:10. It's now 2:20, and that plane must have gone by at least half an hour ago."

"Perhaps," Kilgour pointed out, "it took some time for the water to get into the works."

"That's true—we'll look into that later," North abruptly checked his remarks when he came upon one of those tags, such as tailors sew into custom-made suits, stitched to the inner pocket of the dead man's coat.

Printed on the tag were a number of Japanese characters, then in English. "A Noguchi, Kobe." On a dotted line the name "W. Ishi" had been filled in in ink.

"I say, Hugh, he must have come from the plane," Kilgour presently insisted. "Don't you see? He must have."

"Why so sure?"

"Eyesight, my lad. There's not been a boat anywhere near here, and the late Mr. Ishi certainly could not have drifted out from land and still be warm."

"Very true," North agreed briefly. "He couldn't. But, well, I'm going to catch forty winks before we fetch Honolulu—I've an idea we'll have a busy time tonight."

During the remainder of the long trip back to Honolulu, both the intelligence men slumped down in the forward cockpit and seemed to doze off to sleep.

In his doze, North could see nothing save Nadi Steffen's exquisite features; quite effectively the arching brows, the red appeal of lips, and the play of lights in her eyes banished all other thoughts.

W. Ishi had been a man of importance in the Japanese colony of Honolulu. Reporters flocked to the quarantine dock like flies, and North found it significant that these newsgatherers were not only from the Chinese and Japanese dailies, but from Honolulu's leading white papers as well. And soon white, which Mr. Ishi's body had been laid out. Hideyo Kanamura appeared upon the scene.

Kanamura did not immediately notice Captain North who had effaced himself behind the capable bulk of a big Hawaiian policeman. The intelligence officer's hand closed over Kilgour's wrist when Kanamura came to a halt beside the dead man. Looking very spruce in his white linen suit, the Japanese peered down at his compatriot a long minute, then drew himself up and joined his heels with a click.

Kanamura's sharply delineated features had suddenly become carved of wood. His hand crept out, almost timidly, and touched the chilled fingers dangling at an impossible angle over the edge of the canvas stretcher.

While Kanamura murmured something in his native language, the four or five other Japanese present turned their heads away and gazed at the floor. Then, like a man who determines not to be daunted by a personal loss, the ship chandler faced the police inspector.

"Who found him, please? Where, and how?"

The police inspector indicated North and Kilgour. "It was these gentlemen, Mr. Kanamura. They found the body floating off the island of Maui, about three hours ago."

A deadly glitter shone in Kanamura's bright black eyes as he declared, "You! So it was you?"

"Yes," the intelligence captain said, calmly ignoring the deeper implication of the question. "We were sorry it was too late to do anything for him."

Inscrutable, yet unspeakably menacing, was the look Kanamura shot at the white-clad American; two or three of the Japanese in the background murmured among themselves.

"I am sure," the ship chandler went on in a choked and quivering voice, "that you did everything you could."

His double meaning was so obvious that the English agent said, "Please be reasonable; he was like that when we found him—quite dead, you know."

"Well, gents, guess that'll be all for now," the police inspector announced after shutting his notebook with a snap. "May have to call you for an inquest."

"We'll be glad to do anything we can," North assured him. Ignoring Kanamura's baleful glare, he stalked out of the shed, hailed a cab, and drove off with Kilgour who asked "I say, Hugh, where are we heading?"

"To a watchmaker," North replied as the cab threaded its way through milling traffic. "You see, I'm curious to find out exactly how long it takes the watch," he produced Mr. Ishi's square gold wrist watch, "to stop when immersed in water."

Half an hour later the watchmaker had repaired Mr. Ishi's watch. Shortly after that, in the wicked armchairs of North's room, both intelligence men were relaxing momentarily. Finally Kilgour suggested, "Well, Hugh, my lad, I shouldn't wonder but it's time for a summing up, as a barrister would say."

"Sure thing," North agreed with a long sigh. "At last we've got something definite to go on—now we know how Teodora Mazro died."

Bruce Kilgour straightened his body to stare curiously at his companion. "And just how do you think she died?"

"A needle thrust."

"Hum—you found that out at the morgue?"

"The proof, yes; but I guessed it on Abner Polk's float."

"So far so good," the Englishman murmured, "and now will you tell me how the body came to be where it was found?"

"Please think back," North invited.

Fear that stamps might be used for purchases outside the county and prospects of all relief bills being paid within 60 days prompted the decision, commissioners said.

It has always seemed to me that the equipment of a funeral director was an exceedingly important thing. Fine equipment naturally adds a fitting beauty and dignity to the final services; less desirable equipment is not quite in keeping with the solemnity of the occasion.

Accordingly, it is with considerable satisfaction I have observed the policy of the Stark Memorial, which quite obviously is to keep Stark equipment, at all times, modern and complete. There are no deviations from this commendable principle.

SPORTS CLOTHES MAKE YOU LOOK SMART AT GAMES

There is no reason this year to let the lack of smart looking clothes spoil the prospect of a well-earned vacation. Fashions are designed to make you look your smartest whether you're sailing, golfing, or merely lounging at home. And they can be made at home as well as purchased at your favorite sports shop. Slacks must fit perfectly to look well, see model at left above. A good standard pattern is simple to alter to your own proportions and keep the same trim lines. There is a new rayon that tailors beautifully, holds a press and launders like a hanky. It comes in plain colors, with matching striped fabric. Cottons are tops for bathing suits. The suit shown, center, is the new exotic Hawaiian flower printed poplin. Tennis and golf frocks this year are styled for spectator wear as well as active sports. A short-skirted dress, like the one in the photograph, right, with all-around pleats, is practical as well as fresh and crisp looking. Make one up in white or natural linen with turn-back collar and action-pleated sleeves, with one of the neat zippers to fasten the side placket, and you are all set to take part in a game or to watch one.

Indians And Cardinals Out In Front In Major Leagues Again

TRIBE WINS FIRST HOME GAME AFTER EASTERN JOURNEY

Yankees' Loss to Athletics Gives Indians Full Game Ahead

By JUDSON BAILLY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cleveland Indians and St. Louis Cardinals are out in front of the major leagues again after giving New York fans a day of enthusiastic planning for a "subway series."

The Indians' return home from a back-breaking eastern tour apparently was just the tonic the Tribe needed, because they came through last night with a 3-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox in exactly the kind of a game they play best.

Big Al Milnar pitched a steady seven-hitter before 42,000 fans and his mates peppered Bill Dietrich with timely hits, one of them a home run by Jeff Heath.

This was Cleveland's second straight triumph after losing four of five previous affairs and came on the heels of a 7-6 decision for the Philadelphia Athletics over the New York Yankees.

Smith Hurts Today

The Cleveland Indians called on Lefty Al Smith today to keep them in the top slot. Smith, with four victories and four defeats, opposes Thornton Lee, another southpaw, with a five and five record.

In clinching up his seventh victory last night, Al Milnar gave the Indians a full game lead over the second place New York. It also evened the 1941 series with the White Sox at four games each.

Joe DiMaggio extended his sensational batting streak to 39 consecutive games with his 17th home run and a single, and also increased the record home run string of the Yankees as a club to 36 to 22 straight contests.

Joe needed to hit again today at Philadelphia to have a chance to tie and break the 19-year-old 41-game record of George Sisler Sunday at Washington, where the Yanks will play a doubleheader.

Senators Whip Sox

The Washington Senators whipped the Boston Red Sox, 5-3, last night with a three-run rally against Jack Wilson in the sixth inning.

Bob Harris pitched four-hit ball for the St. Louis Browns to shut out the Detroit Tigers, 9-0, and give the American league tailenders their first triumph at Briggs stadium in 45 starts dating back to April 16, 1940.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, who had ascended into a first-place tie in the National league Thursday while the St. Louis Cardinals were idle, had a day off themselves yesterday and the Redbirds gave them the same kind of treatment.

The Cardinals clipped the Cincinnati Reds, 5-3, in a night tilt and regained their half-game margin at the top of the standings. Paul Derringer and Max Lanier each pitched nine-hit ball, but the St. Louis safeties included a home run by Terry Moore in the first inning and another by Don Padgett with one on in the eighth to decide the encounter.

Giants Crush Phils

The third-place New York Giants crushed the pitiful Phillies, 7-4, with two big innings and sent the cellar dwellers to their 16th defeat in 18 games.

Truett (Rip) Sewell hurled six-hit ball for the Pittsburgh Pirates at Chicago, but had a narrow escape as the Pirates went to the ninth inning before getting him the margin of a 4-2 victory.

College Star Will Pick League Berth

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — When Dick Wakeland, youthful University of Michigan outfield star, decided to drop from school at the close of the present semester and pursue a major league baseball career, representatives from eight major league clubs turned their tracks toward Ann Arbor to bargain for his services. They regarded him as one of the best prospects ever to come up from the collegiate ranks.

Wakeland, as a result, today is making a tour of the major leagues before deciding which club he will sign with. He has practiced with the Detroit, Cleveland and Washington clubs. After working out with the Cincinnati Reds and the Chicago Cubs, he will announce his decision.

Is Natural Hitter

Wherever he chooses to play, he will take with him the reputation of being a natural hitter. He has power in that smooth swing. While practicing with the Detroit Tigers, he parked two consecutive hits in the upper deck of the right field stands.

Dick says his ability all came through practice. Last winter while playing basketball for Michigan, he kept a baseball bat in his locker, and each day he would swing it for ten or fifteen minutes to perfect his stance and motion. Worth of this daily practice session can be seen in the remark of Del Baker, Tiger manager, who, after watching the youngster flail the apple, turned to onlookers and said: "Gentlemen, that fellow has power."

Calls Shell Races Most Gruelling Of All Sports

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Which is the most punishing of all sports? Is it a fight, a wrestling match, a mile run, a Marathon, a football game, a six-day bike grind, a tennis match, a crew race, or a water polo match?

We put this question up to several old timers in the sports world and without exception they agreed today that the most gruelling sport on an athlete is a four-mile crew race.

In every other sport an athlete may get a breather for himself but not in a crew race. Once that gun barks, the oarsmen are at the mercy of the stroke oar and he must follow that stroke's pace in perfect unison and without a let-up for about 20 minutes.

Dollars and Sense Dept.
Rajah Hornsby was guaranteed $1,000 a month managing the Indians down in Oklahoma City. . . . And Bus Ham, the Oklahoma sports ed and straight flush expert, reports the club saves about $750 of that with Homer Peel succeeding the Raj. . . . Red Ruffing is having his best pinch-hitting year with the Yanks. . . . So don't be surprised at a mild beef and holdout party come contract-signing time next winter, when Rufus the Red howls for extra pay for his slugging. . . .

Kicking It Around

What's that about Branch Rickey going to the Giants when the Cards say bye-bye? . . . With your old pal (?) Sweet William Terry giving up the running of the club's farm system. . . . Jarrin' Jawn Kimbrough, Marion Pugh and Bill Crenshaw, last seen in that extra-special Texas A & M. backfield, are at Camp Bullis for R. O. T. C. work. . . . Illinois, Indiana and Michigan each grabbed three Big Ten championships in the 1940-41 wars. . . . But Minnesota was the football king. . . . Eddie Miller, the Braves' infielder, has a bull as big as a fried egg on his arm. . . . And speaking of the Braves, Boston writers say Casey Stengel's extra-hot smart-cracks during a losing streak make everybody laugh but his own players. . . .

Today's Guest Star

Earl Ruby, Louisville Courier-Journal: "The annual intercollegiate crew race starts at one end of Foughkeepsie and finishes at the other. The fact that a college for girls is located at one extremity and a state institution for mentally handicapped at the other, is said to have had nothing to do with the planning of the course."

DRISCOLLWOOD DEADLOCKS WITH SAXON CLUB, 6-6

Each Team Registers Seven Hits, One Double, In Even Game

The Saxons and Driscollwood, tied in the sixth, 6-6, battled through nine innings in an unsuccessful attempt to break the deadlock before darkness closed the contest last night at Centennial park.

Each team scored six runs on seven hits. Linder struck out one and walked seven while Theriault struck out four and walked three. C. Sweitzer chalked up a double for the Driscolls and M. Linder drove one out for the Saxons in the evenly balanced fray.

A forfeit was ruled in the second game when the Trades Glass failed to assemble a full team for a scheduled game with the Salem China.

Church League

In the only Church league game played last night the Baptists welcomed the Christians, 11-4, in a seven-inning game. King hit a home run for the Christians.

St. Paul forfeited to the Presbyterians in the second scheduled contest.

One Out Of Every 11 U. S. Fishermen Comes From Ohio, Conservation Group Shows

COLUMBUS, June 28.—According to figures released today by Commissioner Don Waters of the Ohio Division of Conservation and Natural Resources, fishing license sales increased 15,000 last year over 1939, while hunting licenses showed a slight decrease of 1,000.

In 1940, 636,629 fishing and 533,458 hunting licenses were sold, in comparison with 621,066 fishing and 534,616 hunting licenses in 1939. The slight decline in hunting licenses was believed due to increased employment.

Temporary non-resident fishing licenses increased from 3,717 in 1939 to 4,362 in 1940.

Pymatuning lake hunting and fishing stamp sales also show a considerable increase from 284 hunting and 2,189 fishing stamps in 1939 to 371 hunting and 4,403 fishing stamps sold in 1940. Ohioans are becoming increasingly aware of this large new lake in north-eastern Ohio.

According to a report made by the United States Biological Survey on license sales last year, Ohio has one of every 11 licensed fishermen in the United States, and one of every 14 licensed hunters. In 1939 Ohio ranked second among the states in the number of fishing licenses issued and was fourth in the number of hunting licenses. Last year's national figures have not yet been made public.

Lake Bass Season Opens

Lake Erie bass season will open July 1 and fishermen are readying their boats, rods and reels for the opening day. Season in inland Ohio is already on.

Tentative Squirrel Season

The squirrel season, which last year was from Sept. 25 to Oct. 10, will be moved up, if the tentative regulations are adopted by the Ohio Conservation commission at its next meeting, to Sept. 15 and remain open to Sept. 30, with the exception of districts Nos. 1, 2 and 3 in Pymatuning Lake in Ashtabula county will open to fishing on July 1 and the season will continue until and including Nov. 30.

A special license for Ohioans in the form of a stamp costing $1.50 and must be attached to their regular state fishing permit.

TRAINS DERAILED; 2 ENGINEMEN DIE

Freight Crashes at Niles;
Limited Derailed At

Four cars of the Manhattan Limited were derailed at Massillon but police said the only injury reported to them was an ankle fracture suffered by a woman passenger. This wreck occurred shortly before 7 a. m.

Braking Apparatus Falls
The train was proceeding at a comparatively slow rate of speed, since it had just made a stop at the Massillon station, and the accident occurred less than a mile from the depot.

Police said braking apparatus on one of the cars—the third back of the doubleheader locomotives—apparently fell to ties to cause the derailment of two express cars and two day coaches of the 15-car train. All the derailed cars remained upright.

Five hundred feet of track were torn up, and automobile traffic was stopped at the Cherry road crossing.

Traffic on both the east and west main lines of the Pennsylvania was halted by the wreck, and railroad officials immediately began re-routing trains over branches. They said traffic on the eastbound line would be restored shortly, but the westbound tracks could not be cleared and repaired until late today.

Opportunities to buy to advantage are found daily in The News classified advertising columns.

CAMPS ON JAMAICA TO HOUSE 11,000

Gibraltar Evacuees Live
There As Wards of The Empire

KINGSTON, Jamaica—More than 1,500 Spanish-speaking British subjects—residents of Gibraltar—are living in a large evacuee camp six miles from Kingston as wards of the British empire.

They were brought here last fall when evacuation of Gibraltar's civil population was started, and installed at Camp Gibraltar one of two large centers constructed by the government with a capacity intended to shelter 11,000. The other center, Camp Malta, is still unoccupied.

The camps, situated on the Mona property, an abandoned sugar estate, comprise nearly 100 buildings, constructed of American and Canadian pine on concrete foundations.

Communal System Set Up
Although the evacuee colony, which is soon expected to be doubled by additional "Gibraltarenses," is subjected to certain restrictions, it dwells in communal fashion, and its members have finally become habituated to new conditions of climate and diet and have lost much of the early nostalgia from which they suffered when they arrived here.

They can leave the camp as they please provided they return at 10 P. M., and that they observe the proviso that they engage in no commerce or labor outside the confines of their own colony. The camp contains administration buildings, a church, a commissary store, school, postoffice, movie theater and hospital.

The camp is under a commandant, E. A. Rae, former deputy mayor of Kingston. Order within the camp is maintained by 30 Gibraltar policemen who came out with the evacuees. The men of the colony keep the camp clean, and the cooks, waitresses and hospital nurses are all evacuees. Medical care is provided by the Gibraltar government.

Children Go to School
As the evacuees are virtually all Catholics their spiritual welfare is in the hands of Jesuit priests, while the school is taught by nuns. The 250 school children are taught Spanish and English, and a large number of the adult colonists have a considerable working knowledge of English.

Life in the camps centers largely around the dining halls where the people gather three times daily for their meals and in the evening for entertainment. Breakfast served at 7 A. M. A typical meal is bacon and eggs, porridge, tomatoes, bread and butter, jam and coffee. A typical lunch consists of soup, pork, beef, fish, potatoes, rice, celery, bread and butter and dessert. Supper, served from 5 to 6 P. M., is a lighter meal and a sample menu would consist of macaroni and cheese, bread and butter, dessert and tea.

There are large recreation fields. Football is the favorite sport of the young men of the camp. While the girls play basketball.

The health of the camp has been excellent with only 20 deaths, mostly of aged persons or of those who were seriously ailing when they arrived at Jamaica. There have been 45 births.

Of the colonists, only 451 are males—men and boys—out of 1,515. The cost of construction of the camps was about $1,250,000, operating expenses total $10,000 weekly.

Men Ruled Earth "Long and Well"

READING, Pa. — Women should give the earth back to men, who "ruled it long and well," according to Evangelist Homer Rodeheaver.

The man whose trombone blared "Brighten the Corner Where You Are" and other revival hymns for the late Billy Sunday ending an association of more than 20 years believes the world is "in a pretty mess" since feminists gained the voting privilege.

"Man ruled the earth for a long time and ruled it well," Rodeheaver said in his nationally-known Tennessee drawl. "Look at it today!"

"Twenty years after being granted their rights, the women already have it in a pretty mess. These so-called feminists have invaded every field of politics, industry and profession."

"They have neglected their homes for a desk and a typewriter. They weren't even contented to just go to the polls and vote. They had to run for public office and meddle in politics. Now, they're trying to run everything."

The 50-year-old Evangelist advocated a worldwide revival and a "return to the principles of the Sermon on the Mount."
